UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN PLEDGED TO POOL MUNITIONS, SHIPPING AND RAW MATERIALS

Announcement Made in Washington Simultaneously With Churchill's First Appearance Before the House of Commons Since Return From United States—Will Establish Joint Boards

By George Durno

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(INS)—The United States and Great Britain today jointly pledged to place every ounce of their munitions, shipping and raw materials into a "common pool" for immediate allocation to any spot on the world wide front against the Axis powers where "critical needs" may develop.

President Roosevelt revealed from Washington simultaneously with Prime Minister Churchill's first appearance before the House of Commons since returning to London that the two leaders had agreed upon establishment of three joint boards to deal with "munition assignments, shipping adjustment and raw materials."

This joint pronouncement from Washington and London came as Australia, the Dutch East Indies and China—to say nothing of General MacArthur's valiant forces in the Philippines—were pleading for large-scale reinforcement against the Japanese, and Russia was looking for replenished supplies to meet a predicted German counter-attack in the spring.

A formal White House statement announced that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had agreed to establish:

1. A "munitions assignments board" with the understanding that "the entire munition resources of Great Britain and the United States will be deemed to be in a common pool, about which the fullest information will be interchanged."

2. A "combined shipping adjustment board" through which, "in principle, the shipping resources of the two countries will be deemed to be pooled" and "the fullest information will be interchanged."

3. A "combined raw materials board," charged with "best and speediest development and expansion and use of the raw materials under the jurisdiction or control of the two governments" to offset temporary losses of supply sources.

Indicative of the determination to send assistance to any one of the 25 united nations battling the Axis powers as pressure may develop, the White House announcement said:

"Members of the boards will confer with representatives of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and such other of the united nations as are necessary to attain common purposes and provide for the most effective utilization of the joint resources of the united nations."

Mr. Roosevelt announced formation of the boards as a "further co-ordination of the united nations war effort" between himself and Churchill.

Under the Washington agreement, the munitions assignment board will be represented in both Washington and London by committees under a civilian chairman, and otherwise composed of members of the combined chiefs of staff, "in a manner similar to the southwest Pacific agreement."

Either Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the new war production board, or lend-lease generalissimo Harry Hopkins is expected to head up the Washington committee. Nelson was regarded as a more likely choice, in addition

VICTIM, T. K. TRAUGER

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 27.—Charles Kunigis, Jr., 21, Upper Black Eddy, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of 75-year-old Titus K. Trauger, who was struck by the defendant's car, December 23rd, and left lying along the Lackawanna Trail, was held for the grand jury following a coroner's inquest here on Friday afternoon.

Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, county coroner, was in charge of the inquest which was held in the office of Justice of the Peace W. Carlisle Hobensack, and the members of the jury were: foreman, George L. Haller, Thomas Diver, Mrs. Della W. Hoffman, Joseph G. Montanay and W. Lester Trauch, Doylestown, and Alonzo L. Bishop, Blooming Glen.

The coroner's jury held the young defendant because he operated his car in a negligent manner while driving on a foggy and rainy night.

Private Francis B. Joyce, Doylestown sub-station Pennsylvania Motor Policeman, who investigated the case and arrested the defendant, testified he saw Trauger lying along the road south of Riegelsville.

He said he interviewed John Schick, of Tannersville, who was the first man to arrive at the scene of the accident, and that Schick said he saw a man lying along the road and stopped his car.

While at the scene where the man was lying dead, a car drew up, a young man, well-built and husky,

BUCKS COUNTY MAY HAVE A SURPRISE BLACKOUT ANYTIME

Defense Council Issues Statement Outlining the Situation

GIVES DUE WARNING

This Area May Be Included
In the Phila. Metropolitan District

That Bucks County may expect a surprise blackout is indicated today by a statement given out by the Bucks County Council of Defense.

The statement signed by Col. Churchill Williams, reads:

"Information that the Army may, on any night require a surprise blackout to be carried out over the Metropolitan Area of which Bucks County is a part, is what might reasonably be expected at this time, in view of conditions on the Atlantic coast. Whether this be a preparatory notice that this part of the country must be ready at once to carry out its share in protecting the great industrial plants of the lower end of the county itself and of Philadelphia and Camden against an actual possible 'taken' air attack or is only the next step in perfecting the execution of the blackout as a device which might have to be used at some distant time is not known. It is certain that a blackout of which the date and hour are not announced ahead of time is something we should have as soon as practicable if the community is to be made sure that it really is protected so far as a blackout can accomplish that result."

In neither case should such information do more than make every man and woman of Bucks County have a deepened sense that their country is very much in the war and that we have a part to play in that war which we cannot neglect or postpone.

"Bucks County already has had practice blackouts over several of its communities and one over the entire county. Everyone at all times has co-operated in making them a success, and our record is high with those who are qualified to speak.

"But this is only the first step. All the blackouts, so far have been pre-arranged. Everyone in each of these practice blackouts has been told in advance just what to do at an exact hour and minute. There was nothing left undone which could be done to remind people, up to almost the last tick of the clock that each one of them was to

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

Motor Torpedo Boats Fight Dive Bombers

Washington—The War Department today announced that two motor torpedo boats connected with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in the Philippines have successfully fought off formations of enemy dive bombers.

Text of the 7th communiqué:

"Philippine Theatre—There was practically no ground fighting on the Bataan Peninsula during the past 24 hours."

To Head American Forces in British Isles

AEE Headquarters, Northern Ireland—Major Gen. James E. Chaney has been appointed commanding officer of all American forces in the British Isles with headquarters "somewhere in England," it was announced today. Brig. Gen. Charles L. Boite was named chief of staff.

Churchill Takes Full Responsibility

London—Convinced he sees a ray of light behind the clouds, Prime Minister Churchill today shouldered all responsibility for British setbacks in the Far East and Africa, promised heavy new AEP reinforcements and American bombing attacks on Germany and laid himself at the mercy of a vote of confidence in the House of Commons.

Churchill answered his Australian critics by announcing formation of a joint Pacific council to conduct the war against Japan and predicted eventual united nations sea and air supremacy in the Far East.

Churchill announced that the United States has been given command of the eastward approaches to Australia and New Zealand.

Main points of the prime minister's 80-minute address:

1. Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa have been granted representation in the war cabinet, while a joint Pacific council has been formed to prosecute the war against Japan, which he assured was not a secondary undertaking.

2. Two-thirds of Gen. Erwin Rommel's army in Libya has been wiped out, but the British, numerically inferior at the outset, have lost 18,000 men.

3. Rudolf Hess came to England determined that Churchill could be thrown out to make way for a "magnanimous" peace offer from Hitler.

4. "Fauls, shortcomings, delays and blunders" by his own regime were freely admitted.

6TH ZONE WARDEN REPORTS ON BLACKOUT

One Hundred and Forty-Seven Post Wardens Were
On Duty

SPLENDID CO-OPERATION

A complete report of the activities of the air wardens of the sixth ward upon the occasion of the blackout test held Sunday evening, January 18th, was given out for publication today by Percy G. Ford, Zone Warden of that district.

Mr. Ford was assisted by H. Wesley Spencer and Samuel H. Trautman, deputy zone wardens, and the Rev. Edward H. Knetter, deputy zone warden, chaplain.

"There were 147 post wardens, 20 senior wardens and three zone wardens on duty. Due to the instructional value of the blackout we deem the entire set-up in the 6th Zone was effective and the public fully responsive. Although violations were encountered no public lack of understanding and co-operation were encountered."

"That violations of the blackout order as observed by the various zone wardens reflects full credit for their activity, whether post or as senior wardens. The alertness of the wardens, should, we feel, be heartily appreciated by all residents of the Zone. Personally, I, as zone warden, wish to congratulate all wardens and the public of this zone in general, for the manner in which the blackout test was carried out. All wardens in the Zone are conscious of their duty and the general public can expect that the letter of the blackout law is effective to the strictest degree."

"We ask, and know the public will give, fullest co-operation should another test or a genuine blackout be ordered. In the event any individual does not co-operate—they can expect only the severest command or penalty. We are organized to do a job—and the United States Government authorities should expect and will get wholehearted co-operation from the 6th zone wardens. All we ask of the public is: Keep cool; Stay at home; Put out all lights; Lie down; Stay away from windows; and remember finally—YOU CAN HELP."

"To prove the worth of our zone wardens we make public the violations that occurred during the test blackout

Federal Judge Guy K. Bard signed a decree yesterday in Philadelphia, giving Federal Works Administration immediate title and possession to 45½ acres of land in Bristol for the construction of a housing project for defense workers.

The ground, located at Beaver Dam Road and Miller avenue, or most of it, is owned by the estate of Sara A. Stackhouse.

Judge Bard's action was on a petition filed by U. S. Attorney General Gerald A. Gleason, and C. James Tardaro, special attorney for Lands Division of Justice Department, acting for Baird Snyder, who is acting Work Administrator. Judge Bard set February 23rd as a deadline for filing of any objection by the Stackhouse estate, or any other party interested in the land, to its being taken by government for defense purposes.

Pending a final decision in the case, the government deposited a check for $13,574.13 with George Brodbeck, clerk of court, to pay for the land. That is the government's estimate of the value of the ground.

The land in question is located on Beaver Dam Road, just beyond the limits of Bristol Borough. It is planned to build 200 houses on the site, and according to plans proposed some time ago, there would be a recreation field in connection with the project.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
I. N. S. Staff Writer

Now we know what happened at Pearl Harbor. The tooth is out and it doesn't hurt half as much.

Everybody played "let George do it" and Tojo did it.

The investigating committee wrapped up its report in less than two months. This is about six strokes under par for a normal investigation by Congress.

A congressional investigation is not completed until each boy has planted his quota of oratorical flowers in the record.

The President did a smart thing when he went outside the elected circle for his quiz kids.

Nobody was white-washed and nobody was tarred. The report was printed in red, white and blue and if there was a predominance of dark blue it was nothing more than we expected.

We won't have to remind the brass hats to "remember Pearl Harbor." They'll never forget it.

Thought for the day: A booby prize is the best incentive to sharpening your game.

CANADA'S STRENGTH

Canada entered 1942 better prepared than ever. The Royal Canadian fleet numbers 300 ships. The Canadian army started out with 4,500 on active duty and 55,000 reserves. A year ago 167,000 were on active duty with 100,000 reserves.
Today the active army numbers 240,000, with 170,000 reserves.

The Royal Canadian Air Force, which has made an excellent record in combat, has had an even more phenomenal growth. At the outset of war it contained 4,500 men. A year ago there were 36,000 in RCAF blue uniforms. Today there are 93,000.

Canada's shipbuilding industry has been completely revived. One corvette every four days is now turned out under a $125,000,000 order. One hundred freighters will be built by the end of 1942 in a $300,000,000 program, and a $9-000,000 small boat program is already 50 per cent completed. Shipyard employment has jumped from a 1,500 pre-war total to 20,000.

The first half of 1941 showed more aircraft produced in Canada than was turned out in all of 1940.
Chemical and explosive output this year will exceed that of the entire 1914-18 period. Two hundred tanks a month is the present production, although the first tanks began rolling out last June.

Canada's total war expenditure this year will be $2,350,000,000, of which 78 per cent will be pay-as-we-go. This from such a small nation as Canada shows that Uncle Sam's neighbor to the north is putting everything it has into the war effort.

UNFORGOTTEN MEN

Hovsep C. Nahigian of Chicago, in an address to students of a state teachers' college, is reported to have said that "the world will soon forget Hitler, just as Napoleon and Genghis Khan were forgotten, but art will live forever."

Mr. Nahigian, by that statement, has offered fairly good proof that Hitler will not soon be forgotten.
Certainly, he has shown that Napoleon and Genghis Khan have not been forgotten, at least not by Mr.
Nahigian. Books recounting the exploits of Napoleon and Genghis Khan continue to pour from the presses. It cannot be that the publishers continue to believe that they are resurrecting forgotten men with each new volume.

Even if it were true that Hitler will be forgotten, it would be no discredit to Adolf if the world's fading memory of him were contrasted with the fact that art will live forever.
Certainly there will always be persons desirous of giving expression to concepts of beauty, and there will always be persons able to appreciate such expression. Art is a continuous process, it is a department of life.

Every person knows that there is also a tendency to evil within living man. A good case could be made out for the fact that vice will always exist in the world. As a matter of fact, Hitler, art and vice, Napoleon and Genghis Khan probably will live, if not forever, certainly for a long, long time.

With weather forecasts being steadily curtailed throughout the country, newspapers may soon print under Weather: Winter, spring, summer or fall.

Hitler may yet play the Mussolini role in the Berlin-Tokyo alliance.

was recently made in borough council session that possibly the Boy Scouts of for numbering the houses in the borough. The troop, therefore, will undertake to outline such, submitting the plan to council for that body's approval.

"HUTCH" OF THE R.A.F. by PETER MUIR

SYNOPSIS

Forced down on a golf course in Kent, England, David "Hutch" Hutchinson, American flyer with the "Hornets" squadron of the R.A.F., meets lovely Wendy Bruce.
The latter, an ambulance driver on leave, is the daughter of Lord and Lady Harrowsdale, whose estate,
"The Downs," is nearby. Just as David finishes repairing an oil leak, he sees three Messerschmitts chasing a single Spitfire. He joins the battle and down one of the enemy planes; the other disappears into the clouds. When news comes to "The Downs" that Philip, Wendy's brother, is to take the place of a "Hornet" who crashed nearby, the girl's heart sinks for fear it was David. She is overcome with emotion when Philip phones that David is safe. In the meantime, Hutch has returned to his base, to learn that his friend, Capt. John McCall, was the flyer who had "bought it" (an R.A.F. term for dying in combat). Word comes that a fleet of bombers was sighted over Hastings. Hutch is made squadron leader in Mac's place. Just as the "Hornets" are about to go to the attack, Philip joins them. Three enemy bombers are downed and the others routed. Hutch goes to the hospital with a shoulder wound. Tossing on his cot, a parade of memories, pleasant and unpleasant, passes through his mind; outstanding among his thoughts is Wendy. Now the visit he proposed through her brother would have to be delayed.
Wendy, on the other hand, returning from her furlough to Watford, can think of nothing but David.
She is in love, and wonders what her parents would think if she married the American instead of Lord Leslie Gordon, their selection as a prospective son-in-law.

CHAPTER TEN

The train rolled into London accompanied by the wail of Mexxa (those banshees, the air raid sirens) signalling an attack. A major from the General Staff looked out of the window and remarked casually, "There they go. I don't think they'll be over us. The archies are driving them back."

Archies, Wendy mused. Why were the anti-aircraft guns called archies? English slang was far, though sometimes rather pointless.
In the direction indicated by the major she could see dark specks hurry along in groups, and all about them tiny white puffs as shells from the ground burst. The noise of battle did not reach her ears over the rumbling of the train, and soon the planes disappeared to the south and Clara (the all-clear signal) sounded.

Back at Watford nothing had changed during Wendy's short absence. Ten of the ambulances had gone into London during the night to evacuate wounded, and there had been a few trips from this hospital to that for transfers. One of the girls had had a narrow escape from a bomb on the outskirts of London.
Her car had been covered with debris, but the Section Leader, Miss Florence Gill, said that things had been comparatively calm. For the moment there was nothing Wendy could do, except wait for calls.
And, of course, her ambulance probably would be sent into the capital again that night. Till then it was best to take it easy, get some rest if possible.

Rest was the last thing that Wendy wanted. She retired to her room and sat down to write Philip a letter. When she once made up her mind to do something she did it, and she had made up her mind to know David better. Why wait?

Days and nights were precious things that fled so rapidly, especially now in war. Despite her youth she realized that time was something not to be wasted, that it is the most valuable thing we mortals possess.

"Phil Darling," she began. "I want you to bring— She tore this up, and started another. "Dearest Phil: Will you please ask— No would this do. They seemed to her too awkward and straight to the point. Try as she would she could think of nothing more subtle. Subtlety was not one of her traits and she gave it up. "Well," she said.
"Why not be awkward and straight to the point?" For a third time she began the letter.

"Phil, Old Dear—Please bring David Hutchinson down to see us as soon as you can. I want to know him better. Cheerful Yours, Wen." She read this over and seemed satisfied. "There. No one can say that I am beating around the bush."

She sealed the letter, addressed it to the R.A.F. headquarters, and personally carried it to the post office.

The ambulances were not sent out until morning. A little after five o'clock, Miss Gill woke up the drivers. "London has had a very bad raid," she said. "I've just had a call for all available cars. Comb the streets and, when you have as many wounded as you can carry, take them to St. Albans Hospital or bring them here for first aid. Split up when you get in town, and run from here in convoy at one hundred yard intervals. I'll go in Car No. 1.
Hurry!"

It was still dark when the convoy passed out into the cold morning and strung along the road as instructed. Despite the fact that they were running without lights, the convoy held a good pace and progressed rapidly.

Long before reaching London proper, Wendy could see the glow from freshly lit fires and flashes from the archies. Now and again she could hear them rumbling off in the distance when the wind was from the right direction. Enemy bombers must still be attacking, but soon daylight would come and the pursuit planes of the R.A.F. would cause the Nazis back across the Channel. She wondered if Hutch and her brother would be up fighting somewhere in the sky above her.
The thought made cold sweat stand out on her forehead. If she saw an English plane shot down she would feel sure that it was David—or Phil.

As they advanced, the glow grew brighter and grimmer, and soon clouds of smoke were visible, then the flames themselves.

When they were in the outskirts of the town, the Section Leader halted the convoy and ran back to the five cars bringing up the rear.
She ordered those cars to spread out immediately as fires indicated that there had been heavy bombing here.
The next five cars, which included Wendy's, would follow the convoy for another two miles before spreading. The others would continue until further orders. She ran back to her place and blew on a whistle the signal to advance.

Wendy was driving the last car of the five that were to drop out and scatter next. She watched those ahead of her turn off, and, after they had gone, chose a narrow road to the left. For some distance she moved along it cautiously, looking ahead and to either side to see if there were signs of destruction. But at first there were none, at least none of recent date, and all debris had been cleared away.

Above her she could hear the drone of motors and the archies thundering a drum-fire barrage.
Occasionally a piece of steel would whistle down from one of the bursting shells and drop with a thud nearby. This indicated that the raiders could not be far away. She could clearly distinguish, over the din of anti-aircraft guns, heavier explosions of bombs in front of her and coming closer. She stopped her car and got to the ground so as to hear better. An incendiary bomb dropped not three hundred yards up the road, and another even nearer, followed in quick succession by high explosives at two hundred yards.
They were coming directly over her, the sound of their motors beating in her ears.

Instinctively Wendy crouched on one knee between the ambulance and a brick wall, waiting with drawn breath and pounding heart for the next crash. It came, and the force of it knocked her to the ground.
Splinters of steel, broken glass and bricks whistled above her, and the dust settled on her prone body.

Hutchinson awoke at break of day, roused from his tormented, dream-filled slumber by the noise of airplane motors. Or was this just another dream. No, there they were as plain as the light on the bare white hospital wall, and they were British pursuit planes, at least a squadron. He judged that they were headed in the direction of London, but this was difficult to say as he did not have his exact bearings yet. Certainly they were R.A.F. fighters, might even be the Hornets—his squadron. This was a bitter thought and he made a wry face. His squadron, and he wasn't even with it. "Elast the luck!"

In spite of the bad night he felt stronger, and told the doctor so when he came in for an early morning visit. "Good," the medical man said. "I'm glad of that, particularly as I will have to transfer you today to a place further away from town.
We have to keep cleared out here for emergency cases, and a call came through a few minutes ago that there are a number on their way from London. Bad raids last night, very bad. Now, let me have a look at your shoulder." He took off the bandages, swabbed out the wound, and put on fresh ones.
"With luck, young man, and provided you take the proper care of yourself, you will be back in the air by the end of a fortnight."

"I hope so, Captain. Thank you."

"Good-bye, and good luck. I shall send an orderly for you when there is a place in an ambulance. You will go to a hospital down in Kent.
Excellent place, run by a very old friend of mine, Lady Harrowsdale.
Good-bye again."

If David had known that this woman was the mother of the girl he had met on the golf links the day before, he would in all probability have shown more enthusiasm. As it was, he waved his good hand to the doctor and said, without much interest, that he was sure the place would be nice.

Cassidy, who is ill.

The speaker in passing on parts of the messages delivered by many prominent figures in national life who addressed the Washington conference, urged confidence in the United States of America and its leaders. "If everybody in America does the best they can, then America is unbeatable," was one of the outstanding remarks.

Mrs. Stewart passed along information on the U. S. Marine Corps, the Navy and the Army, telling of the personnel of each and the duties and activities. She stated that the conference was reminded that the U. S. fleet is not going into action as fast as some people might think it might, but repeated the information that "when it does go into action we will be certain of victory." At this point Mrs. Stewart reminded of England's position in the first World War, telling that the fleet did not go into great action until about two years after the war started. "But it won that Battle of Jutland, one of the turning points in the war."

Continuing, she said: "The valor of men at Pearl Harbor, on December 7th should be all the stimulus we need to do our best for our country."

"Patriotic organizations should do their best to stifle un-American tendencies

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Almighty God, in these days of separation, we pray that Thou wouldst bless all those who are near and dear unto us, wherever they may be. Inspire us with the realization that Thou art always with Thine own, and that those who live in Thee are always together in Thy Spirit. May the cord of Love in Jesus Christ Thy Son, bind us all together, that wherever we may be, yet may we labor together for the advancement of Thy Kingdom and to glorify Thy Name. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The story of a woman's struggle for wealth, a struggle in which she sacrifices her husband, her daughter and her soul, is the compelling theme of Bette Davis' newest screen vehicle, "The Little Foxes," in which the star is supported by a brilliant cast headed by Herbert Marshall.

The film is set against a background of a little Southern town at the turn of the century when the industrial development of the Deep South was just beginning. Miss Davis portrays the ambitious and ruthless wife of a kindly bank president (Marshall), who is dangerously ill of a heart ailment.

Despite his condition, his wife selfishly urges him to join with her avaricious brothers in financing a big cotton mill that promises to bring them all huge profits.

VOLTZ-TEXACO GOES INTO UNDISPUTED LEAD IN THE LEAGUE

Franklin A. C. Loses To Rivals By the Score of 36 to 34

TRAILED BY 11 POINTS But Club Made A Decided Stand and Won Game

Rallying in the final period, the Voltz-Texaco team took undisputed possession of first place in the Bristol Basketball League, winning out over the Franklin team, 36-34, on the Mutual Aid court.

At one time during the tilt, the gas-oilers were trailing by 11 points but the determined red-jerseyed team just wouldn't give up and finally in the final period they caught up and passed the Franklin team for that club's second defeat of the half.

With a little more than two minutes remaining to be played, the Franklin team had a one point edge, 31-30. Berry was fouled and given two free shots. He missed on both and all hope for a Texaco victory seemed gone as Franklin took possession of the sphere and began a little backcourt play to kill time.

"Pete" DeLuca sneaked through the Voltz-Texaco defense and on a pass from Palumbo scored and Franklin was three points to the good. Immediately after the throw-in, Hutchinson received possession of the ball and scored from side-court to make the score, 33-32. Berry followed this by intercepting a pass and scoring from the half-way mark and Voltz went ahead for the first time of the game. Berry and McElroy increased this lead as both jumped on to tap the ball in on a rebound from the board. As the final whistle sounded, DeLuca scored a foul for Franklin to make the score read: Voltz, 36; Franklin, 34.

Junior McElroy and Tony Palumbo were high for their respective teams with 12 points each. The gas-oilers' average on foul shots, 8 out of 16, was a big help in the final score as both teams scored 14 double-digits.

PROFY TALLIES 15 POINTS IN ONE PERIOD

The Profy team really looked like champions last night as it tallied 15 points in the third period to down the Rohm and Haas quintet, 44-39, on the Mutual Aid floor.

The chemical workers were quick to grab the lead and the close of the first period had the Maple Beach contingent in front, 10-6, but the Mill Streeters came back strong and wrested the lead from the boys of Bobby Weideman and at half-time were in front, 16-12.

The Profy brothers, Vince and Tom, went to town in the following session and with this pair doing the bulk of the scoring, Profy's scored 15 points to take a 31-20 lead. But in the final period, Jimmy Rue went on a scoring spree for the chemical workers and with the aid of Jesse Vansant came within four points of the Profy total until Teddy Sak and Chuck Klein put the finishing touches on the tilt with four goals divided between them.

Rue was high man in the game with sixteen points; Tom Profy had 15 points; Vince, 12; and Klein, 10, for their night's work.

BRISTOL HIGH GETS ANOTHER CRACK AT CONSHOHOCKEN IN HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM TONIGHT

(By Jack Gill)

Bristol High School gets another crack at the Conshohocken team that tallied a convincing 52 to 22 decision over the Cardinals on January 13th, tonight, in the local "gym." Since that time the fast moving Conshy club has swept by all opposition in their suburban section and is being hailed as one of the best clubs of the year.

Bristol will be out to cut down the score of the last game with the invaders. It is again doubtful, however, that Paul Ruby, ace center, will see action. The homesters missed his services in losing to Trenton Catholics last week by a 28 to 10 count.

The proteges of Bill Bartholomew were away "off" form and missed shots more than a brilliant defense accounted for the low tally. They'll be gunning for the basket heavily this evening in an attempt to tab an upset.

Bill Stubinski, rated as one of the best centers Bristol has played against this year, led the Conshohocken team. He raked up 13 points before retiring from the game the last time he faced the Cards. Zajac and Zolotowski will start at forward slots and Hyllinski and O'Donnell will man the guard posts.

Bristol stands pat on its best array of Chick Di Angelo and Jim Hopkins up front, Nick Melillo at the pivot, and Joe Accardi and Kenny Herrmann in the backcourt.

Fallington is active tonight on its Trenton court, meeting the strong Mt. Holly five in a Delaware Valley conference contest. The Orange club continues to pace the Penn-Jersey loop and is experiencing a great season, having suffered two losses. One came from Red Smith's classy Trenton outfit, while Bristol chalked up a last-minute one-point triumph over Jim Doheny's clan.

The Bensalem Owls play host to the Richboro team at Cornwells Heights in a non-league engagement.

DUGAN DEFEATS FOE TO ENTER FINAL BOUTS

Handing his foe a decisive beating, Joseph "Jobby" Dugan, 175-lb. Otter street youngster, entered the finals of the Philadelphia city championship by defeating Sammy Brown, of the East-side Club.

Dugan is fighting in the heavyweight sub-novice class and will meet another opponent Wednesday night at the Cambria and if successful here will fight in the tournament of champions at Convention Hall, starting some time next month.

Dugan had little trouble with his foe last night as his hard right hand punches sent Brown to the canvas four times. But the game, colored youngster stood in there and took all Dugan had to offer and refused to stay down although handed a terrific lacing as the Bristolian won each of the three rounds.

BENSALEM MATMEN SCORE THRILLING WIN OVER UPPER MERION

Warren Jester Becomes The Hero of The Evening

FINAL SCORE IS 24 TO 23

A Number of Outstanding Bouts Keep Crowd On Edge

(By Jack Gill)

Bensalem High School's wrestling team scored a thrilling 24 to 23 story-book wrestling triumph over Upper Merion last night at Cornwells Heights. Going into the final bout of the evening in the 185-pound class, the outcome of the meet rested upon the shoulders of Hertzog, of Upper Merion, and Warren Jester, of the home forces.

The Bensalem grappler stormed out at the start and aggressively took command of the bout to score a fall over Hertzog in 2 minutes and 54 seconds. Thus Warren Jester became the hero of the evening.

Other outstanding bouts on the program were Captain Roy Silcox's victory over Jack Nowak and Bob Reed's win over Palaia, who was forced to forfeit the match after 2 minutes and 54 seconds of action.

The Owls came back strong after a shaky start to come from behind to nip the invading Upper Merion team. Starting with John Dean's win in the 145-pound class, Bensalem swept the remaining four matches of the night.

Bob Reed, Roy Silcox and Jester all came through with needed victories. Other Bensalem match winners were David Reed and Arnold Stackhouse.

95-lb: Toth, Upper Merion, threw Reedman, Bensalem; 2:59.

103-lb: Reed, Bensalem, scored decision over Mayer, Upper Merion.

112-lb: Stackhouse, Bensalem, scored decision over Padwiny, Upper Merion.

120-lb: Michael, Upper Merion, defeated Potts, Bensalem, on fall.

terials division of the old OPM, operating under direction of war production chairman Nelson, and Sir Clive Baillieu, director general of the British Purchasing Commission, operating under Lord Beaverbrook, are understood to be tackling this job.

Erection of several tin smelters in the United States and development of all available methods for making synthetic rubber are said to be their most urgent goal. Resources of all the Americas are being brought into play in overcoming the rubber shortage.

BENSALEM GIRLS TO PLAY BUCKINGHAM TEAM

Coach Helen Smith's fast-going Bensalem High School girls' basketball sextet will go after its sixth straight win tonight when it meets Buckingham high school on the Bensalem floor. It will also be the fourth Lower Bucks County League match for the Owlettes.

To date the Bensalemites have beaten Buckingham, Alumni, Boothwyn, Southampton, and Bristol. The score of the first match ended in a 51-32 triumph for the lassies from the Bristol Pike school. Bristol defeated Buckingham last week and so it figures mean anything, the Bensalem girls should add this game to their log of victories.

Incidentally, the Bensalem boys' team won its first game of the season last week beating Southampton, 33-29, in one of the upsets of the season.

Bristol high girls are scheduled to play this afternoon at Southampton and a victory for Coach Kallenbach's proteges will give them three straight and put them back into the running for the Lower Bucks championship.

United States and Britain Pledged To Pool Resources

For other reasons because Hopkins is again ailing in a local hospital. Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, was expected to head the London committee.

In establishing the combined shipping adjustment board it was agreed that, while "in principle the shipping resources of the two countries will be deemed to be pooled," each nation will continue to control and direct its own shipping as heretofore, subject to full interchange of information.

This would leave Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission, in control of American ship movements and the British minister of war transport in a similar capacity for London.

Joint committees will function in each capital. President Roosevelt's recent elevation of Capt. Howard L. Vickery, a member of the maritime commission, to the rank of Rear Admiral led to speculation that he would represent the United States in London.

The combined raw materials board already has been fairly well forecast. Loss of rubber and tin production centers in the Malayan Peninsula and the Dutch East Indies focused early attention on the need for equalizing these vital materials.

William S. Batt, director of the ma-out alarm comes, if it does, not take it for granted that it is 'another practice alarm,' and so fail to do each one his or her part.

"It may be a practice exercise,—it might be a reality."

of January 18th. We further desire to commend each violator (they knowing their violations) who responded so wholly to the wardens orders. We in the 6th zone had no recalcitrant violators. We are proud of the 6th zone populace and believe the public under our jurisdiction can feel proud of their air wardens. The public can feel assured that we, the air wardens of this 6th zone will not, under any circumstances, let them down. We do mean business. We do expect undisputed co-operation from our public. We ask three things: 'Remember Pearl Harbor'—Keep 'em Flying,' and obey the commands given by the Air Raid Wardens.

"The following violations were reported:

"We encountered a home where a resident thought he was doing right. In order to blackout a heavy blanket had been thrown across the only window in the room. But the Post Warden saw light and immediately called attention to the violation. The man responded immediately by extinguishing all lights. Two Wardens reported.

"A Post Warden found two rooms fully illuminated in a house. After considerable door and window pounding he received results. A man was alone in the house and sound asleep. Our Post Warden disturbed his sleep and got pronto results in blacking the home. One Warden reported.

"A faint glow was noticed by a Patrolling Post Warden and upon investigation found a resident sitting at ease listening to the radio. The bright light from the radio panel was sufficient to cause trouble. For the blackout duration this chap sat quietly without any music. We should state further, the rest of the home was completely blacked out. Three Wardens reported.

"In another instance, Back-Yard Post Wardens discovered what they thought was a flashlight going on and off. What they really found upon investigation was a hungry woman scouting in her electric refrigerator. She apparently opened the refrigerator door three or four times and this gave the impression from the street that flashlight signals were being given. Wardens have contacted this person; results A1. Four Wardens reported.

"In another case Post Wardens observed what they thought was a flashlight. Upon investigation it was discovered that an inveterate pipe smoker was having trouble keeping the gadget aflame. Too many matches were his downfall. Answer: Buy better tobacco. Three Wardens noticed this violation—one his wife.

"In a business establishment our Post Wardens found a light burning in an inside room. No one was on duty and we have no desire to cause damage so the light was left burning during the blackout. We might further state that should this owner fail to conform with regulations and a similar incident occurs—you can rest assured the light will be extinguished. All business places not having a watchman on duty—must, either extinguish all lights before closing business—or, have a night light switch installed on the outside of building. Position must be made known in zone headquarters. The lights will then be put out by Post Wardens without any damage to the property. Seven Post Wardens reported this incident.

"We had nine reports of a flashlight being constantly flashed on and off in front of one of our big industrial plants on Radcliffe street. They have their own patrol system and our Post Wardes could not go into their territory. They have been duly notified of this infraction by our Zone Wardens.

"The Airplane Beacon Light at Croyon and the reflection from Engine Headlights on P. R. R. trains were almost 100% reported violations. The beacon and train illumination of the Bristol Water Tank on Green Lane came in very heavy.

"One of our Post Wardens encountered a stray dog with a litter of pups in what we call our Wood's Section. The dog was quite angry at being disturbed and the warden was considerably perturbed. The incident could have been serious, but the Post Warden took his leave gracefully with no ugly results. This incident was reported to proper authorities for disposition.

"The proprietor of a sport's center had been previously notified to place blue lights at various points in his building. He complied 100%. During the blackout a bluish hue similar to that given in welding operations was emitted from most windows. The reports on this violation amounted to 19. This proprietor has agreed to place heavy curtains over each window to avoid future violations. It was further noted that young men stood in the windows, smoking cigarettes and lighting matches. This has been cared for and the Post Wardens will be detailed to this building to prevent any hazards.

"One Emergency Policeman and One Air Raid Warden were caught smoking on duty. These violations are being strictly dealt with. Men or women on this serious mission who cannot abide by the regulations can be classed as not suitable for the position. The public can feel assured that every Post Warden will and must be a responsible person who will carry out his duty to the last detail.

"All invalid and prospective confinement cases are recorded in the Zone Headquarters and we want to convey to all these people that they will be given preferential consideration. We ask the fullest confidence from our public and we assure you that our objective is your security."

THANK YOU!

The Bucks County Council of Defense expresses to the people of Bucks County generally its hearty thanks for their co-operation in the blackout Sunday evening, January 18th. The work of air wardens and of emergency police in carrying out the requirements for that blackout was a credit to our defense organization. But without the willing and complete co-operation of all of our citizens the results would have fallen far short of the near perfection attained.

It is this spirit of co-operation which is and must continue to be the basis of the work of our plan to make Bucks County united and ready for whatever war conditions may bring to our neighborhood.

Hold Young Man In A Fatal Motor Accident

jumped out of the car and asked, "What's happened?"

Schick, who noticed that the young man's car was tan colored, and had a broken left headlight and the hood caved in, took the license number of the car and gave it to the officer later on. The young man got into his car and drove away.

James Warmifsham, Philadelphia, who was enroute to Scranton and came on the scene of the accident, said he helped put Trauger into a car and sent him to the doctor.

"We were following a truck and I noticed what I thought was rubbish lying in the highway, but I didn't see the body until I got out of the car," Warmingham said.

John Stock, Parkland, who explained he also noticed that they were running over a lot of stuff in the road, testified they were riding behind a truck and thought the truck was losing its load. "The truck driver asked me: 'Did you see that body lying along the road?' I hadn't noticed it until we stopped, got out and walked back," Stock testified.

A Riegelsville butcher, Joseph Holtmeyer, who testified he saw Trauger walking in the center of the highway a short time before the accident happened, said: "I swore at him and said 'For — sake get out of the center of the road.' I couldn't say whether Trauger had been drinking or not that evening."

During the testimony it was revealed that Trauger frequently walked in the middle of the highway, and that also he was quite often intoxicated and known to be a heavy drinker.

The defendant, who said he left his home in order to go to Easton to buy a Christmas present for his wife, stopped at a road stand in order to go to a rest room and then drank two glasses of beer.

"I have been driving since I was 16 years old and I imagine I drive several thousand miles a year and I have never been arrested for speeding," he said.

"I was driving along and another car was coming toward me when all of a sudden I saw a man in front of the car. I didn't have time to put on my brakes. I lost my head and became panicky. I drove up to Riegelsville, and turned around and stopped at the scene of the accident and then drove home. When I got home my wife said I couldn't talk for a half hour."

The defendant, who was apprehended in his home by Corporal R. D. Evans and Private Harold T. Schaefer, both of the Easton sub-station, following an investigation after learning to whom the license had been issued, said he wasn't driving more than 30 or 35 miles an hour.

"I was driving on the low beam because a car was approaching me. I saw the back of the man first, but had no time to put on the brakes. I don't think I ever stopped the car and I don't remember whether his body was lying on the hood or radiator of my car."

Private Joyce, in his investigation, learned that Trauger's hat was lying 105 feet away from the spot where his body was found lying along the road, and the Motor Policeman also testified that "in my opinion the defendant was operating his car too fast for conditions."

Schick, the first man to discover the body along the highway, was not at the inquest although he had been notified.
